Academic Page — Content Requirement Sheet

Based on the approved low-fidelity wireframe: academic.html

Prepared for: Uva Wellassa University — Faculty of Management | Document Date: 30 June 2026

The Academic Page brings together the Faculty's four departments, the academic calendar, official notices, and the committees that govern academic life. This sheet lists every piece of real content needed to replace the wireframe's placeholder content, organised into the page's four sticky-tab sections: Departments, Academic Calendar, Academic Notices, and Committees.

Items highlighted in red below need particular attention — either because the wireframe's dates appear out of date, the data shown is only a partial sample, or no draft exists yet. Image and file requirements are consolidated in a checklist at the end of this document.

ELT — description	Offering undergraduate and professional programmes in English language teaching, applied linguistics and professional communication — supporting teacher education and workplace English proficiency across the Faculty and beyond.	Recognizing the growing importance of English language proficiency and applied linguistic knowledge in contemporary academic and professional contexts, the Department of English Language Teaching (DELT) has initiated a full-time, four-year Honours Degree Programme in English Language and Applied Linguistics. The programme has been designed to provide undergraduates with a comprehensive understanding of English Language and Applied Linguistics while preparing them to apply their knowledge effectively in diverse professional and social contexts. A central feature of the programme is the development of students' English language competencies, particularly in communication, advanced reading, and academic and professional writing. Alongside language proficiency, students are introduced to the scientific study of language and its practical applications, enabling them to understand linguistic phenomena and employ such knowledge in addressing real-world communication needs. The curriculum also provides opportunities for students to develop analytical and problem-solving abilities, IT literacy, presentation skills, and competencies related to organizing, planning, and implementing activities. The programme extends beyond disciplinary knowledge by fostering a range of transferable and professional competencies. Through academic, practical, and research-oriented learning experiences, students are encouraged to develop research skills, reflective practices, leadership qualities, and decision-making capabilities. Particular attention is also given to sector-specific competencies, adaptability, and the cultivation of appropriate attitudes and mindsets required to respond confidently to changing workplace and societal demands.

		Moreover, DELT seeks to create an educational environment in which students can transform their knowledge and skills into creativity, innovation, and entrepreneurial potential. The programme therefore encourages undergraduates to become independent thinkers, effective communicators, innovative problem-solvers, and adaptable professionals who are capable of identifying opportunities and responding constructively to emerging challenges. In doing so, the programme aims to empower a deserving and motivated group of undergraduates to pursue diverse career pathways while making a meaningful contribution to society. The overall orientation of the programme is firmly grounded in the vision of Uva Wellassa University (UWU), “To be the Centre of Excellence for Value Addition to National Resources Base.” In parallel, its academic and professional objectives are directed towards fulfilling the University’s mission, “To produce well-rounded, employable and entrepreneurial graduates equipped with knowledge, skills, values and attitudes to make an outstanding contribution to the national development whilst excelling in teaching, learning and research with a strong emphasis on value addition to the national resources.” Thus, the Bachelor of Honours Degree Programme in English Language and Applied Linguistics is conceived as a holistic undergraduate programme that integrates disciplinary knowledge, language proficiency, professional competencies, entrepreneurial capabilities, and personal development. Ultimately, it aims to produce graduates who are not only academically competent but also employable, innovative, adaptable, reflective, and capable of assuming leadership and decision-making roles in their chosen fields while contributing effectively to national development.

Depending on the actual launch date, these dates and the "Current" marker will need to be rolled forward to the real, currently-active semester. Please supply the genuinely current and upcoming semester structure before launch.

Structure currently shown (Semester 1 → Mid-Year Vacation → Semester 2 → Year-End Vacation), for reference:
